

This much is certain.

Accounts payable insight brings clarity and control to today's tariffs.

Imagine being able to glance at your AP data and immediately see the precise impact of tariffs on your business. Imagine not having to wonder what you owe or why. Imagine taking some of the uncertainty out of global confusion.

This isn't wishful thinking—it's a current reality—all thanks to Medius.

Navigating this new tariff landscape.

It's difficult to find clarity in the worldwide blur of changing tariffs, and you may not immediately think to look at AP. But that's precisely where the answers are.

And with an almost 20% increase in the cost of goods purchased from businesses outside the U.S. over last year, understanding and mitigating the financial impact on your cost of goods is now paramount.

Unfortunately, traditional ERP systems fall short when it comes to understanding of tariff impacts. Why? Tariffs are typically handled by customs brokers and are not directly reflected on supplier invoices, so digging up the necessary data can be cumbersome and time-consuming. This leaves finance teams struggling to answer critical questions about rising costs and supplier risk.

Medius, on the other hand, provides a crystal-clear picture of your AP.

The Medius Advantage: Turning invoice data into strategic intelligence.

Our platform shines a light on your invoice data and provides unparalleled visibility as costs evolve. Unlike systems that struggle with indirect tariff costs, Medius empowers you to:

Gain Precise Cost-Impact Analysis:

- Directly compare pre- and post-tariff invoice prices for specific goods and suppliers, quantifying the exact cost increase.
- Identify hidden price hikes where suppliers may have increased base prices alongside tariffs.

Drive Strategic Sourcing and Negotiation:

- Use concrete cost data to strengthen your negotiating power with existing suppliers.
- Model the total landed cost (including potential tariffs) from alternative suppliers in different regions, helping inform sourcing decisions.

Make the Most of Your Supply Chain:

- Pinpoint tariff-sensitive products and suppliers based on historical price adjustments and consumption patterns.
- See how much of this your suppliers can absorb and who might be willing to mitigate tariff costs.

Enhance Financial Planning and Forecasting:

- Inform your pricing strategies with a clear understanding of the increased cost of goods.

Proactively Manage Risk:

- Identify high-risk suppliers and the regions most susceptible to trade policy changes/price volatility.
- Quantify the potential benefits of diversifying your supply chain to reduce tariff exposure.

Use the power of your AP data to take advantage of today's changing economy.

Because it automatically captures every invoice detail and understands your historical purchasing patterns, Medius makes it easy for finance to quickly identify at-risk suppliers and forecast the financial impact of tariffs.

This invaluable intelligence is the difference between reacting to economic panic and implementing proactive protections for your bottom line.

So when everyone is talking about uncertainty, you have something to count on.
